

Express Fitness Hooksett, New Hampshire

Express Fitness in Hooksett challenged the interior design team to take a former automotive parts center and transform it into a state-of-the-art fitness area that is both a welcoming and inspiring space for people to obtain their fitness goals. The designers were required to fit in a number of different areas into the space including the various cardiovascular and muscle toning equipment, a cardio theater, several fitness studios, and onsite supervised playroom, locker room facilities and tanning booths. Since its opening, the center has been met with overwhelming praise from its members.
